That no resignation from a member of this union, based on a promise of partnership in any firm engaged in the present contest, will be received, but any member accepting such a promise and going to work, will be considered a deserter, and will be treated as such in any final settlement."

Shortly before the meeting adjourned, Mitchell, of the Planet, called and requested an interview with the officers of the union. He stated that the head of one of the biggest printing houses in the city had come to his office on Tuesday and had requested him to print certain job work for him, and that he had declined the request.

On the strength of his standing by the union, Mitchell asked that a striking printer be allowed to help him in his shop, as he had more work than he could do and was further embarrassed by the illness of one of his men.

A member of the union volunteered to take the position and went to work at the Planet office.

Later in the day, an afternoon paper printed the story that Mr. Jenkins, owner of the Hermitage Press, was the man who had approached Mitchell, and gave as authority for the statement, Mr. Jenkins's acknowledgement.

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch, \( \) No. 1102 Hu'l Street. \( \) Two young Richmond girls were found and Perry Streets, refugues from their parents in Richmond. They had run tway from home Wednesday morning in Manchester. Wednesday night, havng nowhere else to go, they passed on the free bridge, huddling close to each frightened by the dark and the shadows and unsleeping through the lonely hours, waiting for the dawn. They could give no satisfiatory reason for having left their homes. It was simply a case of wilfull disobedience and a craving for wildness and adventure. The eider of the two girls was only fifteen, and the other was a pretty little lass of thirteen.

Their parents, wild with anxiety made the rounds of all the police stations in flichmond, and at last with frantic appeal called on the Manchester police for aid. Officer Moore found the twaffs and detained them at the police station house, until the arrival of their parents last night.

The father of the younger came over and related a story pitful in the extreme, of how he had worked to make his home happy and his children contented, and how trouble after trouble lad come upon him until at last his home had been broken up, and he had become well-night desperate.

Justice is Heavy Handed.

William Lowry, of Oak Grove, was fined yesterday in Tazewell, Va., $125 and sentenced to sixty days in jail by a justice of the peace for operating a gambling table on the fair grounds in that place. Three other men were also arrested for being accessories, and will be tried in the morning. It was stated that Lowry is noted as a sporting character in Oak Grove, and that he does not bear a very savory reputation.

Schools to Open

The Manchester schools will open for the coming session next Monday morning. At 9 o'clock in the morning will be begun the enrollment of the old pupils, and on the morning following will commence the enrollment of all the new ones. It is expected that there will be a large increase in the number of pupils this year, and for that reason extra funds for new teachers and more room for the pupils have been supplied.

Gibraltar is Crumbling.

The public is not aware that the great rock of dibraitar is tumbling down—that its crumbing motting masses must be continually bound each with huse patches of masonry and trether with huge patches of masony and cement.
Yet they who sall past Gibraltar cannot fail to notice on the eastern slope of the fortress enormous silver colored patches gleaning in the sun. These patches, in some cases thirly or forty feet square, are the proof of Gibraltar's disintegration. Of thick, strong cement, they keep huge spurs of the cliff's slod from tumbling into the blue sea.
Sea captains, cruising in the Mediterraneum, say, that Gibraltar has been rotting and crumbling for many years, but that of his the disintegration has gone on at a faster rate than heretolore.
